

Terrell's Story

- Family gatherings were always difficult. I would get so paranoid and accuse everyone of all kinds of things.
- My psychiatrist referred me to Keystone.
- I was admitted to Keystone's Group Home.
- The staff and other residents there have taught me so many things- I have learned about my illness and how each medication the doctor prescribes help me manage the symptoms of my mental illness.
- I've learned new coping skills to deal with my anger and paranoia.
- I see my family more often now and our relationship is much better.

Thank you Keystone!
